The Property of Mrs. Colman

(née Salusbury), great-grand-daughter of John Piozzi.

- 386 PIOZZI (MRS.) THRALIANA, A MOST IMPORTANT MANUSCRIPT IN 6 VOLUMES, 4to, ENTIRELY IN HER AUTOGRAPH, and comprising about sixteen hundred and thirty pages. A few leaves have apparently been cut out, but the volumes are practically intact.

* * Its origin and purpose are best conveyed by quoting the first entry, dated 15 September, 1775 :—

It is many years since Doctor Samuel Johnson advised me to get a little Book and write in it all the little Anecdotes which might come to my knowledge, all the Observations I might make or hear, all the Verses never likely to be published, and in fine everything which struck me at the Time. Mr. Thrall has now treated me with a Repository—and provided it with the pompous Title of Thraliana,

The last entry, dated 30 March, 1809, reads as follows :—

Everything most dreaded has ensued. . . . all is over, and my second Husband's Death is the last thing recorded in my first husband's Present ! Cruel Death !

These intensely interesting volumes are partly in the form of a diary, with autobiographical fragments, marginal notes on books and some correspondence. Besides an immense variety of other topics, they record numerous conversations, anecdotes and quotations with and by Dr. Johnson, and were no doubt used by her in writing her "Anecdotes of Dr. Johnson." Mr. Hayward, who printed some extracts from it in his "Autobiography, Letters and Literary Remains of Mrs. Piozzi," thus speaks of the Manuscript :

"Thraliana," which at one time she thought of burning, is now in the possession of Mr. Salusbury, who deems it of too delicate and private a character to be submitted to strangers, but has kindly supplied me with some curious passages and much valuable information extracted from it.

The Property of Lt.-Col. Parker Jervis, D.S.O., of Meaford, Stone, Staffordshire.

- 387 LETTERS OF MADAM DU DEFFAND TO HORACE WALPOLE, 1766–1780. 838 letters, many annotated by Horace Walpole, all, except two letters and portions of three others, written for Madame du Deffand, who was blind, by a valet-de-chambre, Wiart, or others, with five letters to Walpole from Wiart after his mistress's death, newly and handsomely bound in 14 volumes quarto, half red morocco (14)

* * * This remarkable series of letters was purchased at the Strawberry Hill sale with the following eight lots (Sixth Day, lot 107) by D. O. Dyce-Sombre, whose widow bequeathed them in 1893 to her nephew, W. R. Parker Jervis, father of the present owner. They were discovered at Meaford in the opening years of the present century by Mrs. Paget Toynbee, who arranged them and prepared them for press, and were published in full after her death by Mr. Paget Toynbee in 1912.

Mme. du Deffand (née de Vichy-Chamrond), 1697–1780, is celebrated as one of the leaders of the brilliant Parisian society of the middle of the Eighteenth Century. Her salon was acknowledged to be the first in Paris, and it was frequented by such men as Voltaire, d'Alembert, Montesquieu, and Turgot. It was in 1765 that she first met Horace Walpole.

Ce fut le grand événement littéraire et romanesque de la vie de Mme. du Deffand, celui à qui nous devons sa principale Correspondance et tout ce qui la fait mieux connaître. . . . elle, qui n'avait jamais aimé d'amour, qui n'avait en que des caprices et point de roman. . . . cette moraliste à l'humeur satirique devint tout d'un coup tendre, émue autant qu'amusée, d'une sollicitude active, passionnée: elle ne s'appartint plus. Bref, avengle et à soixante-dix ans, elle trouva à placer son cœur, et cette fois (pour la rareté du cas), elle le plaça sur un Anglais, homme recherché, répandu, qui n'avait pas cinquante ans, dont elle aurait per être la mère, qui devait passer sa vie loin d'elle, et qu'elle embarrassait fort par ses vivacités de tendresse. Tant il est vrai qu'elle était destinée, comme on l'a dit, à être toujours sage en jugement, et à faire toujours des sottises en conduite (Sainte Beuve, Causeries du Lundi, vol. I, pp. 419-420).

It was probably Walpole's fear of the ridicule that would be aroused were it known that he had inspired this passionate devotion in a lady old enough to be his mother that led him to have all his letters to her destroyed. Only five of them have been accidentally preserved. (See below, lot 392)

- 388 DU DEFFAND (Madame) Recueil de divers ouvrages, about 272 pp. 4to, with about 7½ pp. 4to of auto. notes by Horace Walpole and the inscription "Ce Livre, avec tous ses autres manuscrits, me fut légué par la celebre Marie de Vichy Marquise du Deffand, 1780, Horace Walpole," finely bound in French contemporary red morocco, gold tooled, with silver lock and original key, and flap doublé with green morocco, also tooled in gold

The lines overleaf, tho a faint picture of her, were a poor attempt to express my Gratitude for her ill-founded partiality.

At the end of the book he eulogizes its contents (which consist chiefly of portraits in verse and prose, including two of herself and Walpole) and tells anecdotes showing her wit and savoir-faire.

- 389 VOLTAIRE (F. M. A. de), and Mme. du Deffand. Copies of their letters, in two folio volumes, calf and blue paper respectively, the former with auto. signed inscription and auto. notes, by Horace Walpole.
- 390 DU DEFFAND (Mme.) Copies of letters addressed to her by various correspondents, about 414 pp., with signed auto. inscription and auto. notes by Horace Walpole, vellum, folio; Journal, Juillet, 1779, green vellum, sm. 4to; Œuvres de M. le Chevalier de Boufflers, about 22 pp., green vellum, 4to (3)
- 391 MONTESQUIEU (Charles de Secondat, Baron de) 1689-1755, celebrated French writer, two A. L. s. 3½ pp. 4to, 1751-3, to Mme. du Deffand, with seals; and three L. s. and copy of a letter to the same and President Hénault (6)

- 392 WALPOLE (Horace) five A. L. in French, 18 pp. 4to, January 4, 13, 19, 27 and 31, 1775, to Mme. du Deffand, THE ONLY ORIGINAL LETTERS FROM HIM TO MME. DU DEFFAND KNOWN TO EXIST.
- 393 VOLTAIRE (F. M. A. de) Copy in the handwriting of Horace Walpole, of a letter from him to Walpole, 5½ pp. 4to, Château de Ferney, July 15, 1768, AN EXTREMELY FINE LETTER, with a few words in English, criticizing Walpole's Richard III, and giving his views of French, English and Classical literature :
- Vous avez fait accroire à votre nation, que je méprise Shakespear. Je suis le premier qui ait fait connaître Shakespear aux Français. J'en ai traduit des passages il y a quarante ans, ainsi que de Milton, de Waller, de Rochester, de Driden et de Pope. Je peux vous assurer qu'avant moi presque personne en France ne connaissait la poésie Anglaise. . . . J'avais dit il y a très longtems que si Shakespear était venu dans le siècle d'Adisson, il aurait joint à son génie l'elegance qui rendent Adisson recommandable. J'avais dit, que son génie était à lui, et que ses fautes étaient à son siècle . . . C'est une belle nature, mais sauvage—nulle régularité. nulle bienséance, nul art : de la bassesse avec de la grandeur, de la bouffonnerie avec du terrible ; c'est le cahos de la tragédie, dans lequel il y a cent traits de lumière—etc.
- 394 DU DEFFAND (Madame) A very large collection of MSS. relating to her, including a few of her letters to various correspondents, a number of letters addressed to her, including some from Voltaire (L. s. or copies, possibly some A. L. s.), others from Mlle. de Lespinasse, the Chevalier d'Aydie, a large number of pieces in prose and verse, epigrams, burlesques, poems, tales, satires, etc., some pieces annotated in Horace Walpole's writing
a large parcel
- 395 A similar collection of printed matter, including Eighteenth Century pamphlets in prose and verse, treatises about the Jesuits, etc.
a large parcel

- 405 BYRON (Lord) A. L. s. 2 pp. 4to, Albany, December 16, 1814, applying for a special licence to marry Miss Milbanke :
 MY LORD,
 I have no adequate apology to offer to Your Grace for this intrusion—unless you will be pleased to accept as one—the circumstance which compels me to take this liberty.

It has been intimated to me that the proper and only method of obtaining the favour which I am about to solicit—is by application to Your Grace in writing. The request I venture to prefer is for a special licence to unite in marriage Miss Anne Isabella Milbanke (daughter of Sir Ralph Milbanke) to him who has now the honour of addressing you. If I have erred in the mode of application, I beg you to pardon my ignorance or misinformation.

I have the honour to be with the most profound respect, My Lord,
Your Grace's

Most Obedt

. . . I greatly fear that until Governments are honest, and Parliaments pure, and Great men less considered, and small men more so, it is almost a cruelty to limit, even the dreadful hours and ways of labour which at this time prevail. Want is so general, distress so great, and Poverty so rampant—it is, in a word, so hard for the million to live by any means—that I scarcely know how we can step between them and one weekly farthing. The necessity of a mighty change I clearly see—etc.

"...The ball struck the forepart of his lordship's epaulette and entered the left shoulder immediately before the processus acromion scapulae which is slightly fractured. It then descended obliquely into the thorax fracturing two or three ribs and afterwards penetrating the left lobe of the lungs and dividing in its passage a large branch of the pulmonary artery, entered the left side of the spine between the sixth and seventh dorsal vertebrae fracturing the left transverse process of the sixth vertebrae wounded the medulla spinalis and fractured the right transverse process of the seventh vertebrae. On removing the ball a portion of gold lace and part of the epaulette, together with a small piece of his lordship's coat were found firmly attached to it..."

(C) MISCELLANEOUS MATTER.

I. PORTFOLIOS. A great part of the collection has been mounted and is contained in thirty-four strapped portfolios, in which the matter has been arranged under years. It is particularly rich in rare and early playbills and programmes, including those of the first appearance of Irving and of Ellen Terry ; others used on occasions when Royalty was present and at the performances given at Sandringham and Windsor Castle, while others represent such memorable performances as the single presentation of Tennyson's "Foresters," "Admission, One Guinea"—and the occasion when, in her student days, Clara Butt made her appearance at the Lyceum in "Orpheus." Speeches and addresses by Irving abound—many of them in his own handwriting and some of peculiar personal interest, such as Sims Reeves' Farewell Address, which was delivered by Irving. Then there are a very large number of autograph letters—a letter from Robert Browning, another from Coquelin aîné and a host of others. Many of the menus, too, are covered with the signatures of famous men and women. The pictures include many original drawings, by Bastien Lepage, Fred Barnard, Bernard Partridge and others ; sketches by Irving, Ellen Terry and Sarah Bernhardt ; portraits and personal relics, e.g. the letter used by Miss Terry in "Macbeth" and, beautifully mounted under glass, two locks of Irving's hair, one dated 1878, and the other 1889.

L. Reade; a receipt in pencil for 50 dollars from Walt Whitman to Irving; a note from Oscar Wilde accepting an invitation to supper, etc.

16. Illnesses and Death. A large number of pictures, letters, etc., showing the wealth of admiration and affection lavished upon Irving by people from all parts of the world.

The ball struck the forward of his leftmost scapula & entered the left shoulder joint. Before the Processus Acromion Scapulae was slightly fractured it then descended obliquely into the thorax fracturing the 2<sup>d</sup> & 3<sup>d</sup> ribs & left puncturing the left lobe of lung & reaching in its passage a large branch of the pulmonary artery entered the
